

1988

- Farmer user and his brothers inherited the agricultural land.
- Agricultural land with grapevine orchard in conventional management.

1990

- Farmer user made the decision to convert the conventional land to sustainable management.
- The grapevine changed to flat peaches trees orchard.

1998

- Farmer user obtained the certification to sell the product in organic farming markets.
- He received a little funding from the government.

2008

- The benefits outweigh the costs.
- The crop production increased more than ever.

2014

- Farmer user changed organic farming to biodynamic agricultural management.
- Sales volumes and market share were correspondingly improved worldwide.

2016

- Farmer user obtained the biodynamic certification by the international organization Demeter.
- The orchard starts to be a self-sustaining agroecosystem.